

Global Warming Experts

Dr. Dan Kammen, Distinguished Chair in Energy at U.C. Berkeley and professor in the Energy Resources Group, the Goldman School of Public Policy and the Department of Nuclear Engineering. Founding Director of the Renewable and Appropriate Energy Laboratory and previous member on the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change. An expert on technology immediately available for automakers to reduce emissions. 510-459-9691 (cell). Info at <http://rael.berkeley.edu/node/83>.

Dr. Amy Luers, Climate Impact Scientist, Union of Concerned Scientists. Was one of 5 members on the Climate Impact section of the recent Climate Action Team's report submitted to Governor Schwarzenegger and the Legislature. 510-843-1872, x. 305

Dan Becker, Director of Global Warming Program, Sierra Club, ph: 202-547-1141, email: dan.becker@sierraclub.org

Jim Marston, Director of the energy program at Environmental Defense. An expert on reducing greenhouse gas emissions from automobiles and electric power plants. Ph: 512-289-5293. Email: jmarston@environmentaldefense.org.

David Doniger, policy director of the Natural Resource Defense Council's climate center, focusing on policies to cut global warming pollution from power plants, motor vehicles and other major industries. Contact Craig Noble, Communications Office, 415-875-6103, cnoble@nrdc.org.

Jeremy Symons, Director of the National Wildlife Federation's Climate Change and Wildlife Program and former EPA climate policy advisor. Ph: (202) 939-3311; Email: symons@nwf.org.