Criminal Law Division

Appeals, Writs and Trials Section

San Francisco

The Appeals, Writs and Trials Section of the Criminal Division of the California Attorney General's Office represents the People of the State of California at the appellate level and also prosecutes cases at the trial level in Superior Court. Law clerks mainly prepare Respondent's Briefs that are filed in the First and Sixth Districts of the California Court of Appeal. Certified law clerks may also have an opportunity to argue cases before the Court of Appeal. Law clerks will not assist with trial work. Each law clerk works with an assigned Deputy Attorney General who reviews all briefs, but the law clerk is responsible for his or her own caseload. Appeals generally involve issues of criminal law and procedure as well as constitutional and evidentiary issues. All law clerks will have the opportunity to attend court.

DESIRABLE QUALIFICATIONS: Applicants must have excellent writing, research, and analytical skills. Ideal applicants will have completed law school classes in constitutional law, evidence, criminal law, criminal procedure, civil procedure, and research and writing. Appellate advocacy and trial advocacy may be helpful. Work experience in the field of criminal law is also beneficial.
