INTRODUCTION

Every year Californians provide generous support to a wide array of charities, either directly or through commercial fundraisers they hire to solicit donations on their behalf. The term “commercial fundraiser” refers generally to a person or corporation that contracts with a charity, for compensation, to solicit funds. The commercial fundraiser charges either a flat fee or a percentage of the donations collected. By law, commercial fundraisers are required to register with the Attorney General’s Registry of Charitable Trusts and file a Notice of Intent to Solicit prior to soliciting in California. For each solicitation campaign conducted, they are then required to file annual financial disclosure reports that set forth total revenue and expenses incurred.

This summary report is prepared from information contained in the annual financial disclosure reports filed for 2009 and includes statistics for donations of both cash and used personal property (such as clothing and vehicles) for the benefit of charity. Tables 1, 2 and 3 provide information from reports submitted by commercial fundraisers that solicit via direct mail, telemarketing, auctions, and entertainment events. Tables 4, 5 and 6 provide information from reports submitted for thrift store operations and vehicle donation programs.

It is important to note that most of the charities registered with the Attorney General do not use commercial fundraisers to raise funds. Historical figures show that a campaign conducted by a commercial fundraiser returns to the charity, on average, less than 50 percent of the contributions it raises on a charity’s behalf. The remainder is retained by the commercial fundraiser as a fundraising fee and reimbursement of expenses.

Information provided in Tables 1, 2 and 3 can be summarized as follows:

- Information was obtained from 809 completed financial reports.
- Commercial fundraisers collected approximately $391.5 million in charitable contributions in 2009, an increase of $35.7 million over the amount reported in 2008.
- The distribution to charity in 2009 was approximately $166.8 million, an increase of $10.4 million over the amount reported in 2008.
- The average distribution to charity from all campaigns conducted by commercial fundraisers in 2009 was 42.61%, down slightly from the 2008 average of 43.96%.

DONATIONS OF PERSONAL PROPERTY: THRIFT STORES AND VEHICLE DONATION PROGRAMS

Thrift stores handle what is known under state law as “salvageable personal property”. They may be operated directly by a charity or by a for-profit vendor. For-profit vendors are defined as commercial fundraisers if they receive a management fee or commission from a charity for which they operate a thrift store or if they purchase a majority of their goods from charities or social welfare organizations at negotiated prices. (Government Code, § 12599.)
Charities that operate their own thrift stores incur overhead and other expenses associated with the operation of a retail store. After those expenses are paid, the earnings are used for such things as management expenses and charitable program services.

Vehicle donation programs have become more popular over the past 10 years. These programs are administered either by charities themselves in-house or by commercial fundraisers that contract to solicit and manage the program on a charity’s behalf.

The process of donating a vehicle usually begins when a donor contacts a charity in response to a solicitation campaign. In the initial phone conversation, the donor will be asked questions about the vehicle. Generally, the vehicle will be accepted unless the cost of towing the vehicle exceeds its value. Donors are responsible for notifying the Department of Motor Vehicles of the transfer of registration. Failure to transfer registration has subjected many donors to subsequent penalties and expenses incurred after donation, most often as a result of parking violations.

The summary of Thrift Store operations and Vehicle Donation programs includes the following information:

Table 4: Thrift Store Operations – Goods Purchased from Charity: This table lists, in alphabetical order, each charitable organization that solicited donations of used clothing and merchandise (“salvageable personal property”) and sold the property to a for-profit thrift store operator. The name of the for-profit store operator is also listed. (18 reports filed)

Table 5: Thrift Store Operations – Management Fee/Commission: This table lists, in alphabetical order, each charitable organization that solicited donations of used clothing and merchandise and paid a management fee or commission to a for-profit thrift store operator. The name of the for-profit thrift store operator is also listed. (3 reports filed)

Table 6: Vehicle Donation Programs: This table lists, in alphabetical order, each charitable organization that solicited vehicles and paid a management fee or commission to a for-profit reseller. (722 reports filed)

The data contained in these tables can be summarized as follows:

- For-profit thrift store operators that purchased goods from charities reported total revenue of approximately $35.8 million for the 2009 reporting period. Of this amount, approximately $5.8 million, or 16.08%, was paid to charitable organizations. Total revenue and the percent to charity increased from 2008, by $18.5 million in revenue and 6.6% to charity.

- For-profit thrift store operators that were paid a fee or commission by charities reported total revenue of approximately $3.4 million for the 2009 reporting period, with approximately $198,000, or 5.75%, paid to the charities. Although total revenue was less than in 2008, there was a slight increase in the percent to charity.
• Total revenue for vehicle donations was approximately $33 million, with the charities receiving approximately $19 million, or 57.8%, of this amount. The total revenue increased by approximately $11.5 million from 2008, while the percent to charity increased by approximately 12%.

The information in this summary is derived from unedited reports filed by charities and fundraisers. The filed reports should be consulted for more complete information regarding each solicitation campaign.
